New Microplegia Service:
World's First Low-Potassium, Non-Depolarizing
Cardioplegia Available Exclusively from CAPS®

Premixed Adenocaine™ All-Blood Cardioplegia Solution Service Now Available to Surgeons and Pharmacies

BETHLEHEM, PA – April 22, 2010 – Central Admixture Pharmacy Services, Inc. (CAPS®), a B. Braun company, announced today the launch of its newest service for the admixture and delivery of Hibernation Therapeutics' patented Adenocaine™ microplegia, the world's first low-potassium, non-depolarizing cardioplegia solution.

Adenocaine solutions from CAPS arrive prelabeled with CAPS high-contrast labeling to maximize legibility and usability in the operating room, and with tamper evidence for added safety.

"When it comes to high-quality service, CAPS delivers. That means Adenocaine™ users will now have reliable, convenient and consistent access to our solutions whenever they need them," said David C. Field, Chief Executive Officer for Hibernation Therapeutics. "State-of-the-art cleanroom technology and more than 15 years of experience in the cardioplegia solution market make CAPS the ideal provider of Adenocaine preparations."

CAPS offers the industry's widest range of service options including same day and next day delivery, 365 days a year.

"We're excited to offer this unique, proprietary, patented solution and service to the cardioplegia market," said Todd Jones, Director of Marketing for CAPS. "Our quality focus and high level of service will complement the innovative solutions from Hibernation Therapeutics."

CAPS meets or exceeds USP Chapter <797> guidelines to safely deliver high-quality admixtures to hospitals from coast to coast.
